

The End Of All Freedom

by David Sorensen - StopWorldControl, LINK

The central banks are preparing to replace all cash money with a digital currency, the CBDC (Central Bank Digital Currency).

This will give them full control over humanity, as they can then monitor every transaction, limit what you can spend, and even delete your funds at will. It is promoted as something that will make our lives easier. The truth is that it would mean total tyranny for all of humanity. Our digital funds would be connected to our digital ID, which will be connected to our vaccine status and social credit scores.

Imagine no longer being able to access your funds - when your digital ID shows that you haven't received your umpteenth vaccine booster. Or envision how your spending would be limited as the result of posting something on Facebook that the government doesn't like. Or worse: what if governments simply erase your bank account because you don't agree with their policies?

This has been happening already with services like PayPal, which closed thousands of accounts because people engaged in activities that oppose tyranny. JP Morgan Chase and Wells Fargo have frozen the bank accounts of people who participated in events that defend basic human rights. In Canada, America, The Netherlands, India, China and other nations, countless people have experienced this.

Similar to what we are seeing on Facebook and YouTube: when you post something that exposes the agenda of the criminal elites, either the post is removed, you are blocked, or worse: your entire account is deleted because "it violates community standards".

Sigrid Kaag, the leader of the Dutch Democrat Party D66, who works closely with the World Economic Forum, is pushing a system that would alert the government when anyone spends more than 100 euros.

Young Global Leaders, who force the agenda of the tyrants.

The plan to install a digital currency controlled by the Central Banks has been prepared for decades. The strategy has been to launch this right after the first pandemic, as one of their "solutions" for "global threats". And here we are.

The Biden administration is also tracking the bank accounts of the American people, and the IRS is notified whenever anyone spends more than 600 USD.

A digital currency would unleash tyranny onto humanity, the likes of which this world has never seen before. It would also prevent the masses from discovering the truth, as people could be punished with their finances, when they look into the truth.

It is critical that we rise up against this. They count on us doing nothing. Grumbling and moaning doesn't stop anything - we must become heroes who take powerful action. Let's surprise them by exposing this worldwide. It is imperative that we share this truth by all means possible. Let's forget our differences and join in the common fight against this nefarious agenda.

If the digital currency becomes an international reality, there will be full and undisputed control of the world population in the hands of a handful of controllers of this financial system.

Is there any hope to escape this nightmare? I am talking to several people who are building alternative financial systems. More about this later.

from the University of Science and Arts in Ghent, Belgium, and works as a "missionary journalist" to report on critical truths that are censored by mainstream media. He has authored eight books and built several websites with a large worldwide audience.

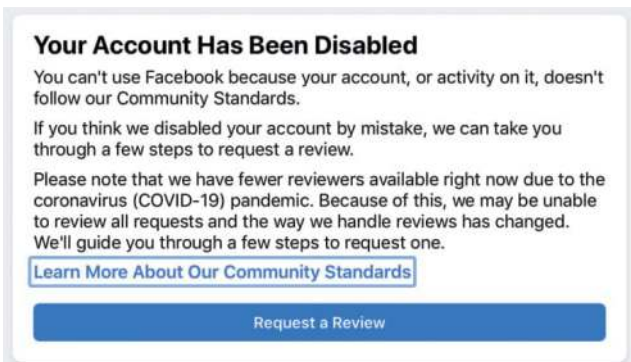

During his media training at the University for Science and Arts, David learned firsthand how corrupt mainstream media is, and how they use psychological techniques to manipulate the public. He learned how colors, shapes, words, rhythm, repetition, music, light, and combinations of all of these are used to influence the behavior and actions of people.

David has worked with many publishing companies, magazines, newspapers and television companies and witnessed firsthand how they focus on influencing and controlling the population, instead of honestly informing them.

Do you think this will stay limited to social media? Once they have full control over your finances, you can bet they will steal money from people at will, just because someone "violates community guidelines". It happens all the time in China, and as we know from the documents published by the Rockefeller Foundation and World Economic Forum, China is their perfect example. The European Union, another example, is going all out on the transfer to a digital currency. There is nothing national governments can do to stop it, since they have been so stupid as to surrender their currency into the hands of the European Union.

Kaag was positioned by blatant election fraud, which you can see in this Dutch report. This is how the WEF gains control over the nations: by rigging elections and positioning their mind-controlled
